Legal Aspects of your Animal Business

3 hour information session about understanding best practice for your pet business

YOUR PRESENTER

Alli Berry has been training dogs since 2016 and is also a full time Technology Lawyer. Alli has a keen interest in reactivity and aggression. Her company, Thrive Canine, works across Melbourne helping owners with their dogs through group classes and private training.

Understanding legal jargon as a dog trainer can be confusing and challenging! Particularly when it comes to the grey areas of contracts, consumer law and trying to look after your own rights. With Alli's understanding of the legal system she has the perfect background to put everything into layperson's terms.

THE SESSION

This session is sure to be jam packed full of information about how to best set up your business and protect yourself. She will be touching on some topics that we, as business owners, may have many questions about:

- Client Rights under Consumer Law
- Refunds and Contracts
- Understanding Domestic Animal Businesses
- Preventing getting Sued!

WHO SHOULD COME

We look forward to having some valid information about this topic and how this applies to you and your business. Whether you are a business owner or a professional working in the pet industry there is sure to be something in this session for you!
